BRUTAL MURDER

Auto driver runs rickshaw over man, returns to run over him again to make sure he is dead

Mysuru, Jan. 12 (RK&BCT)- What seemingly looked like a hit-and-run case where an autorickshaw ran over a pedestrian has now been declared a case of brutal murder.

A CCTV footage that has captured the incident shows an auto driver ramming into a pedestrian only to make a come back to drive over his victim again.

This ghastly incident occurred in N.R. Police Station limits on Jan. 10 evening where an auto driver dashed against the victim, Mallikarjuna (40), who was crossing the road at a junction. As the auto driver turned his vehicle towards the left, he knocked down Mallikarjuna and the rear wheel climbed over the victim's head.

The auto driver did not stop his vehicle and proceeded on the road while the victim was lying on the road. Not stopping at this, the auto driver returned to the same spot within 20 seconds and again ran over Mallikarjuna's head. The auto driver later fled the spot.

Some passers-by shifted the injured to K.R. Hospital. Since he had sustained severe head injuries, he was shifted to NIMHANS in Bengaluru where he succumbed yesterday. N.R. Police had registered an Unnatural Death Report (UDR) case.

The proof of the brutal murder was captured by the Police CCTV camera that was mounted close to the junction, which helped the Cops identify the accused.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

The irrevocable role played by examinations in determining the fate of students, who come from varied backgrounds and preparation, has long been criticised for its rigidity, and these arguments were raised afresh when the Centre removed the non-detention policy under the RTE Act a couple of years ago. In the year of the virus, asymmetries among groups of students stand aggravated, and any detention would be illogical and unjustified. Particular mention should be made of the situation for girls, whose enrolment in higher numbers has been achieved over the years with considerable effort, as well as children in less-urbanised States where access to schools is weak.

When the pandemic had still not swept India in February last year, Education Minister Ramesh Pokhriyal said, among the reasons for children remaining outofschool or dropping out were poverty, economic reasons, and ill-health. The economic factors have, over the past dozen months, been exacerbated by COVID-19, while the digital divide witnessed in online education became an unprecedented cause of deprivation. Moreover, vaccination cannot cover the bulk of the population quickly, and education can possibly achieve a semblance of normality only well into the next academic year. This is the time to create a safety net for education, letting no student fall through. — In The Hindu

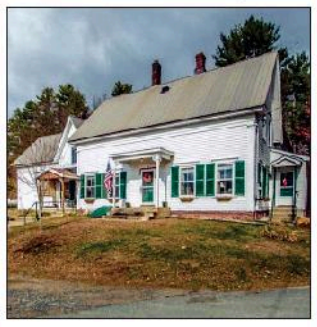
Man wrapped in plastic for not paying tattoo bill

Hanoi: A young shirtless man was wrapped in plastic wrap and tied to a tree in Hanoi for allegedly failing to pay for his tattoos. The photos of it have been doing the rounds on Vietnamese social media.

With temperatures dropping under 10 degrees Celsius, seeing topless men on the streets isn't normal, especially wrapped tightly in plastic wrap and tied to trees. And yet this was the sight some in Hanoi were treated to last week – a young shirtless man wearing a bike helmet, wrapped in see-through plastic and tied to a tree, with a sign that read "I hate paying for tattoos." Photos of the man were posted online, which quickly went viral.

The house with its own seven-cell jail



Guidhall: This $149,000 Vermont property is a unique house which may spark your interest. It doesn't look like anything special from the outside, but it actually comes with its own creepy jail.

Located in Guidhall, a small Vermont town, this 2,190-square-foot white and green home has been listed on online real-estate marketplace Realtor for two months, with an asking price of $149,000. It has four bedrooms, two bathrooms, wood floors and high ceilings, a nice backyard, as well as its own adjacent seven-cell jail. That's right, an actual jail, the kind where people used to be locked-up in up until a few decades ago. This used to be the town jailer's home, and even though the property has changed hands several times since then, the jail has remained intact.

Renovate Kukkarahalli Lake walking track on the lines of Cheluvamba Park pathway

Sir,

It is a pity that Kukkarahalli Kere walking track is badly in need of repairs and renovation (SOM dated Jan.9) and one hopes it gets the urgent attention from authorities concerned.

Meanwhile, Cheluvamba Park walking track which had become a nightmare for walkers has now been renovated as suggested by some concerned readers and regular walkers through this column — what with laying of path with quality soil and river sand and further provision of drainage on either side of walking track.

There was a heavy downpour overnight earlier this week but next morning there was neither water-logging nor the consequent slipping, much to the relief of regular walkers in this lovely park as a result of renovation.

Therefore, the MCC Commissioner and his staff deserve a pat on the back. And SOM too which has always articulated its readers' concerns to the civic authorities effectively.

One hopes, MCC shows the same zeal in renovating Kukkarahalli Lake walking track too. I can't but empathise with the walkers on this track as I still feel emotionally connected to this picturesque Lake and its idyllic surroundings since I used to regularly take morning walks until a few years back while staying in Mysore University faculty quarters (Mansagangothri) earlier.

Stating that 806 people have adopted various birds, animals and reptiles housed in Mysuru Zoo last year fetching revenue of Rs. 4 crore, he said that the co-operation of the public should be remembered for their contributions through adoptions when Mysuru Zoo was facing financial crisis following COVID-19 pandemic.

Free Zoo visits extended

Mahadevaswamy said that earlier, there was a provision for those adopting animals at Mysuru Zoo to visit the Zoo for free five times along with four persons accompanying them, which has now been extended to 10 times, he added that those adopting animals by paying Rs. 25,000 and above can visit Zoos in the State 10 times for free.

Mysuru, Jan. 12 (PM&DM)- KSGH Music and Performing Arts University Acting Vice-Chancellor Prof. Nagesh V. Bettakote said that the Government must establish Folk Scholar Kamsale Mahadevaiah Study Chair at Karnataka Folklore University.

He was speaking at Janapada Academy awardee folk artist Kamsale Kumaraswamy felicitation programme jointly organised by Karnataka Rajya Hindulida Vargagala Jagruta Vedike and Halumatha Mahasabha at Pathrakartara Bhavan on Sunday.

Urging Folklore University located in Haveri district to establish Kamsale Mahadevaiah Study Chair, he said that Kamsale Kumaraswamy, like his father Kamsale Mahadevaiah, has dedicated his entire life for promoting folk arts.

Noting that Kamsale Kumaraswamy has kept Kamsale art alive in India and has promoted it in western countries like Spain and Germany, he said that just as Jogati is associated with Saundatti Yellamma and Goravara Kunita with Mylara Linga, Kamsale art is associated with Male Mahadeshwara.

Assembly Petition Committee recommends suspension of six officials

Madikeri, Jan. 12- Alleging grave irregularities in the execution of works on Kodava Heritage Centre project coming up near Madikeri, the District headquarters of Kodagu, Madikeri MLA Appachu Ranjan said that the Legislative Assembly Petition Committee has recommended suspension of six officials, including a PWD Engineer.

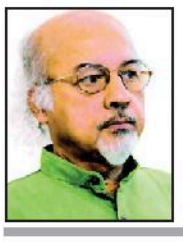
Is this what Democracy has come to?



Point of VIEW

T.J.S. George

Incredible things are happening in America. An incumbent President refusing to vacate office is unheard-of. Donald Trump is doing what no US President has done in the past, indeed, what no Government head in a democracy has done. The result is not just the crumbling of American democracy; physical attacks are taking place by one group against another. Barack Obama put it right when he said that violence at the US Capitol Hill had brought shame to the US.

To see the horror of what is happening in America (of all places, America, long considered a model of democracy), think of India in 2014. A general election took place in April-May that year. The alliance led by the BJP won a sweeping victory, taking 336 seats although the BJP itself got only 31 percent of the votes. Other parties could have used that fact as an excuse to throw out the BJP. But no one protested when the BJP alliance formed the Government.

What happened in America was the opposite of what happened in India. Thousands of Trump supporters started rioting, interrupted a joint session of the American Congress that was underway and created general mayhem in Washington DC. Ex-President Obama said: "History will rightly remember today's violence at the Capitol, incited by a sitting President who has continued to baselessly lie about the outcome of a lawful election, as a moment of great dishonour and shame for our nation." He didn't leave it at that. He hit the bull's eye by adding: "We'd be kidding ourselves if we treated [the violence] as a total surprise."

Trump supporters stormed the Capitol building with a clear intent: Disrupting the electoral count. The count has to be formally completed to formally declare the winner. The pro-Trump rioters were fully prepared for the assault they carried out. The whole city of Washington DC was in chaos, four men were killed in the violence and the Mayor was forced to impose a curfew. Biden was finally certified as the winner and his inauguration is due on Jan. 20. Will the American Capital see more violence caused by a President rebelling against his voters?

No American President in the past had acted so selfishly and in defiance of voters. Even George W. Bush, not exactly an enlightened leader, said it was a "sickening and heart-breaking sight. This is how election results are disputed in a banana republic, not in our democratic republic."

Another former President, Bill Clinton, was more downright. Keeping Trump's self-centered politics in mind, he said that the assault on the Capitol was fuelled by more than four years of "poison politics." That reference to the Trump brand of leadership was capped with the accusation that this President was "pitting Americans against one another." Hillary Clinton went so far as to call Trump and his associates "domestic terrorists."

Such was the unprecedented nature of the violence in America that expressions of shock came from all corners of the world. Indian public opinion was strong that subversion of the democratic process was not merely unlawful but also dangerous. Narendra Modi was finally forced to distance himself from the man he proudly called a friend during the euphoria of the Howdi Modi days.

The bizarre Modi-Trump camaraderie grew more bizarre when Trump's America conferred on Modi the American medal for meritorious service. The show of unusual recognition was sudden and its reasons unexplained. Of course, India is of value to the US as a buyer of American arms. But what was on show here was not India-US ties but Modi-Trump ties. It was a tactical mistake for India to be seen as a Trump client. The price for that Modi folly will have to be paid during the Biden years. It won't be easy. Modi being a natural embracer, it will be hard for him to accept the reality that everybody does not like being hugged. In Wuhan in 2019 Xi Jinping received him with a shake-hand.

The big question is: Do shake-hands and hugs produce results in politics? Modi's embraces are seen worldwide as part of his showmanship. They have won no friends for India. Not even in the immediate neighbourhood. India needs to grow beyond the idiosyncrasies of individuals in power. Greater is the need for the US to rise above the madness of a sitting President.

Bengaluru financier found dead in Mysuru lodge

Wife still missing; Police groping in the dark for clues

Mysuru, Jan. 12 (RK&BCT)- Ten days have passed after a woman went mysteriously missing from a lodge at Old RMC Yard where her husband — a financier from Bengaluru — ended life but till now there is no trace of the woman. Her mobile phone is switched off and the Police still are groping in the dark for any possible clues about her whereabouts.

The woman, 40-year-old M.M. Kavitha, a nurse by profession and resident of Yeshwanthpur, has been missing since the wee hours of Jan. 2 while her husband 45-year-old Umashankar was found dead inside the lodge room. Circumstantial evidence indicates that Umashankar died due to excessive dose of insulin as many empty insulin vials and syringes were found in the room.

The couple had checked into the lodge on Jan. 1 after visiting Kavitha's parents at Jayanagar where they had left their daughter who is studying PUC and told the elders that they had to rush to Bengaluru on some urgent work and would be back soon to pick up their daughter. A suicide note signed by the couple was found in the lodge room purportedly signed by both husband and wife. The note said that Umashankar was being harassed by a couple of persons and unable to bear the abuses, the couple had decided to kill themselves. The note mentioned the names of a few persons.

Though the note indicated that it was a suicide pact, only Umashankar was found dead while Kavitha was found sneaking out of the lodge room under the cover of darkness at 5 am on Jan. 2 and the footage has been captured in the CCTV cameras installed in the lodge corridors. She had left the lodge and had not informed her parents about Umashankar's death.

Umashankar's car was found parked outside the lodge and added to the mystery was that Kavitha's mobile phone location was traced at Chennapatna and it is not yet established that how she reached there. Later, Kavitha switched off her phone. The Mandi Mohalla Police are unable to crack the case as only Kavitha can provide details on what transpired on the night of Jan. 1 and what made her go out of the lodge room leaving her dead husband behind. In an effort to search her, the Police are looking out in Bengaluru, Karnataka-Tamil Nadu border areas and all those places as indicated by her parents.

Her movements cannot be tracked as her mobile phone is switched off and the Police have doubts that Kavitha would have travelled in a bus or a train. "Our teams have so far searched all possible places and even her family members are assisting us. We can get some clues only after Kavitha is found and we can know the real reason behind Umashankar's death," said Mandi Inspector Narayanaswamy.

Corruption, casteism and immorality worst than Coronavirus: Former Speaker

Former Speaker of the State Legislative Assembly addressing the gathering at Pathrakartara Bhavan on Tyagaraja Road in city on Sunday.

Mysuru, Jan. 12 (PM&SSV)- Corruption, casteism and immorality are worst than Coronavirus which needs to be banished from society, opined former Speaker of the State Legislative Assembly Krishna. He was speaking after releasing the 2021 calender brought out by University of Mysore Alumni Association and Dr. B.G.V. Groups at Pathrakartara Bhavan here on Sunday.

Krishna said good days would not come by mere kicking out COVID-19 pandemic, but good days would prevail only after throwing out social evils like corruption, casteism and immorality, which have become stumbling block in the nation's health and development. Casteism has been a biggest curse and along with it, politics was done in the name of religion. The people would understand its ill-effects after ten years. Seeing the current situation in the country, people should question themselves as to why did they want Democracy, he added.

The veteran politician said the current state of politics in the country would give an impression whether India has a future or not. "I have seen more defeats than victory in my political life. Earlier, people were taking care of election expenses by contributing Rs. 5 and Rs. 10 each. In one of the elections that I contested, Rs. 70,000 was saved. Now, each candidate will spend crores of rupees on fighting election. Will those who spend so much of money on winning the election, keep quiet after their victory? Hitherto, the politicians were good natured and scared of society. But now, our intelligence has increased only in cheating and humanity is missing."

Pointing out that a number of agitations were going on now in the country, he said that when Indira Gandhi clamped Emergency, a new political party was born under the leadership of Jayaprakash Narayan and even came to power. It is impossible to imagine that kind of protest now. "It is happy to note that farmers of Punjab and Haryana are on indefinite strike seeking withdrawal of three farm laws," he said.

Krishna bemoaned that bureaucrats were doing all wrong things. If bureaucrats were demons, politicians were 'super demons.' Of late, self-proclaimed Godman Yuvaraj, a cheat has been accused of cheating people in high posts, but the society had seen a number of such Yuvarajas in the past. If they were punished, others would not have dared to do such things. Fear of law was missing among people, he noted.

Veteran freedom fighter, Y.C. Revanna, District Kannada Sahitya Parishat Mysuru President Dr. Y.D. Rajanna, Journalist Amshi Prasannakumar and Mysuru District Congress Committee President Dr. B.J. Vijaykumar were present.

WORD OF THE DAY

Apologia

Pronunciation: ap-uh-LOH-jee-uh.
Meaning: A defense especially of one's opinions, position, or actions.
Origin: As you might expect, apologia is a close relative of apology. Both words derive from Late Latin; apologia came to English as a direct borrowing while apology traveled through Middle French. The Latin apologia derives from a combination of the Greek prefix apo-, meaning "away from," and the word logia, from Greek lógos, meaning "speech." In their earliest English uses, apologia and apology meant basically the same thing: a formal defense or justification of one's actions or opinions. Nowadays, however, the two are distinct. The modern apology generally involves an admission of wrongdoing and an expression of regret for past actions, while an apologia typically focuses on explaining, justifying, or making clear the grounds for some course of action, belief, or position.
Example: "Susan Sontag, probably the most influential writer on the intersection of violence and photography, didn't buy this argument. With forensic prose, she cut through complacent apologias for war photography and set photojournalistic images of violence squarely in the context of viewers' voyeurism." — Teju Cole, The New York Times Magazine, 24 May 2018.

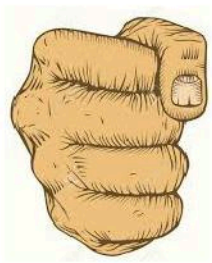
THE ODD WORD

Ablepsia

Blindness.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A bunch of fives



Meaning: 'A bunch of fives' is a slang term for a fist, especially one used for punching. The fives are the four fingers and the thumb.
Origin: The phrase appears in print in 1825, in Charles Westmacott's satirical novel The English Spy: "...came up to the scratch and floored many a youkel with their bunch of fives."
It is also reported as appearing, slightly earlier, in Boxiana by Pierce Egan, 1821. Boxiana is a classic work on boxing history and folklore, and just the place to look for such a reference, but it isn't easy to obtain copies of it these days, and one can't confirm that attribution. However, 'a bunch of fives' does certainly derive from early boxing terminology. The 'scratch' referred to in Westmacott's story is the line that boxers were brought up to, to face each other at the start of a match. The early 1800s saw the invention of the boxing glove, which later became mandatory under the Queensbury Rules in 1867. In the 1820s bare-knuckle fighting was still commonplace and the 'fives' were the weapon of choice.

India Vs Australia - 3rd Test

Vihari, Ashwin defy Australia to earn remarkable draw

R. Ashwin and Hanuma Vihari walk back at the end of the game at the SCG yesterday.

Sydney, Jan. 12- A courageous and injury-wracked India pulled off a remarkable draw in a tense third Test against Australia yesterday as they survived against the hosts' much-vaunted bowling attack to take the series into a decider. They resumed day five at 98/2, needing a further 309 runs after being set a huge 407 to win when Australia declared their second innings at tea Sunday on 312 for six.

No team had ever bettered 288 to clinch victory in the fourth innings at the Sydney Cricket Ground (SCG), with Australia achieving that mark against South Africa in 2006.

But India gave it a massive go, passing 288 in the final session to fray the nerves of Australian team throwing everything they had at them.

The visitors abandoned any hope of victory but they bravely clung on for the draw with Hanuma Vihari, nursing a hamstring injury, surviving 161 balls for just 23 runs and Ravichandran Ashwin, who had treatment on his ribs, making 39.

They steered India to 334 for five at the close, 73 runs adrift. Their resistance was built on the back of an explosive 97 from Rishabh Pant and a typically gritty 77 from Cheteshwar Pujara, who passed 6,000 Test runs, but also helped by wicketkeeper Tim Paine dropping three catches.

It culminated an absorbing Test marked by some high quality batting, led by Steve Smith's 131 and Pant's 97, and razor-sharp fielding.

But it will also be remembered for allegations India were racially abused by sections of the Sydney Cricket Ground crowd, with investigations underway and tough action promised against anyone at fault.

After Australia won the first Test in Adelaide by eight wickets then India bounced back in Melbourne by the same margin, the series now heads to Brisbane later this week (Jan. 15 to 19) for the final chapter.

It will be a depleted India again at the Gabba, with fast bowlers Mohammed Shami and Umesh Yadav and batsmen K.L. Rahul out injured and question marks over all-rounder Ravindra Jadeja, who dislocated his thumb in Sydney.
